

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The frequency deviation of a first signal having a short cycle time contained in a received signal is detected and the frequency deviation of a second signal having a long cycle time contained in the received signal is also detected. Then, the frequency deviation of the received signal is determined on the basis of the detected frequency deviation of the first signal and the second signal. Subsequently, the frequency of the received signal is adjusted.

5

10